PART-TIME

Highlights

International and interdisciplinary, with a strong strategic and practical focus: welcome to the International Business and Economic Diplomacy master degree programme.

The core subjects

The core subject international business focuses on internal company operations that are relevant for internationalisation processes. The emphasis in the core subject economic diplomacy is on external factors that provide the framework for international economic relations, and which in turn have a significant influence on business success abroad.

Employability and research skills

The topics of international business and economic diplomacy are brought together in the core subject of Employability and Research Skills. The Skill Lab is a place where you can enhance both your hard and soft skills. For example, the Business Analytics course shows you how to understand and analyse business data from an application-led perspective, and how such data can be used to support corporate decision-making processes.

The electives

Trade Management Strategies or International Economic Relations. In your chosen elective, you go one step further and take on the role of an expert, focusing on strategic aspects of international trade in a business context, or on international collaboration from an institutional perspective. You can tailor your degree in line with your personal interests – the electives in semesters 2 and 3 give you all the flexibility you need.

Tip

Do you want to strike the right balance between studying and your work commitments? Or would you prefer to have the weekends off? We offer two study-time models for this part-time master degree programme: you can attend courses either on Thursdays and Fridays, or on Fridays and Saturdays. The programme also includes courses and excursions spread over a total of three block weeks. So the degree is perfectly compatible with professional and/or family commitments.
The big picture

I chose the International Business master degree programme because I work as an entrepreneur in the consumer goods industry, which means I’m confronted with many different aspects of business on a daily basis. Export-related topics are obviously crucially important. For me, the biggest benefit is the strong international focus and the international mindset: as a student on this programme you’re in permanent contact with a diverse group of people from lots of different countries, and that’s helping me to develop as a person.

Theory meets practice

We don’t just study the theory; we also benefit from our lecturers’ wealth of real-life experience. This is absolutely amazing! The way that financial and strategic management is so closely linked to practice-based examples is particularly useful for me. It brings the theory to life and makes it easy to understand. “When I was sitting at the same table as Steve Ballmer [the former CEO of Microsoft] and offered him my advice ...” – These sorts of statements bring home to me that I’m studying at the right university.

Studying and working

I think this English-language programme is definitely the ideal option for enhancing my entrepreneurial skills. However, you should bear in mind that I’m generally an advocate of part-time degree programmes. You can use the time when you’re not studying to develop professionally. Of course, it only works if you’re strictly disciplined and organise your time very carefully – you can’t be lax about this. But the sacrifices you make during your studies are absolutely worth it. If you want to get in touch, I’ll be glad to help.

A very personal story

LUKAS RENZ COMPLETED HIS BACHELOR DEGREE IN TOURISM AND LEISURE MANAGEMENT HERE AT IMC KREMS. IN 2015 – JUST BEFORE HE STARTED THE COURSE – HE FOUNDED A START-UP CALLED BÄRNSTEIN, WHICH HE SUCCESSFULLY BUILT UP ALONGSIDE HIS STUDIES. LUKAS WAS IN NO DOUBT THAT IMC KREMS WOULD BE THE RIGHT CHOICE FOR HIS MASTER DEGREE, TOO.

Career options

After graduating, you have excellent career prospects. Potential fields of work include: national and international organisations and NGOs, foreign direct investment (FDI) management, think tanks, consulting, foreign trade (import/export), international marketing, outsourcing/product management, risk management and hedging, HR and employee development.
IMC. It’s all in me.
