

IMC University of Applied Sciences Krems

IMC University of Applied Sciences Krems (IMC Krems) is widely regarded as Austria's most modern and international university of applied sciences. The university offers 27 innovative full-time and part-time degree programmes in business, digitalisation and engineering, health sciences and life sciences. The Universum Talent Research survey underlines the high level of satisfaction among Austrian and international students at IMC Krems: the university regularly secures top spot in the student satisfaction category.

First-hand expertise

The highly practical, academic education offered at IMC Krems stands out for its strong focus on leadership qualities and soft skills. The curriculum also includes an extensive selection of language options, and project-based work in small groups, where direct access to lecturers plays a key role. Sharing knowledge first-hand and ensuring that students constantly acquire new expertise is one of IMC Krems' leading priorities.

A dedicated, international and highly qualified teaching faculty, which puts a strong emphasis on quality, motivates students to perform to the best of their ability, preparing them for international careers. Interactive learning, direct, personal exchange of experience between staff and students, cooperation with research facilities and enterprises, and international partnership programmes with other universities make studying at IMC Krems a unique experience. Set in one of the most idyllic parts of Austria, there is also an extensive range of leisure activities on offer, which turns the university into a home away from home for students.

International partnership in action

International aspects shape day-to-day activities at IMC Krems: we have close ties with over 140 partner universities, cooperate in numerous partnership programmes and our students come from 50 different countries. Intercultural exchange, internships abroad, participation in international research projects, and lectures from international teaching staff and guest professors with extensive international experience are part and parcel of what we do. Around half of all degree programmes are taught in English – an especially attractive aspect for both Austrian and foreign students.

Launch your career in Krems

Establishing close ties between teaching, research and industry is a major priority for IMC Krems. The university sees itself as more than just a higher education institute – it continually pursues cooperation with the worlds of research and business. And this is a crucial part of how the university prepares students for the job market. 90% of all students find permanent employment within three months of graduation and the employment rate among graduates is 98%. This reflects the benefits of the mandatory internship semester and applied research semester.

One of the country's top universities

According to Industrie Magazin, IMC University of Applied Sciences Krems is one of the leading universities of applied sciences in Austria. IMC Krems came second in the most recent listing. The annual ranking is based on a survey of HR managers at Austrian companies and their views on the degree programmes offered by the country's universities of applied sciences.

IMC University of Applied Sciences Krems

Located in the heart of the province of Lower Austria, IMC Krems is widely regarded as one of Austria's most international universities of applied sciences, with one of the most highly developed networks and a practical focus that is second to none. IMC Krems has 140 partner universities, over 1,000 partner companies worldwide and more than 2,700 students from 50-plus countries. The university offers 27 full-time and part-time bachelor and master degree programmes in business, digitalisation and engineering, health sciences and life sciences. IMC Krems has strong links with research and business – 39 research projects are currently under way at the university, with total funding of over EUR 8.1 million. English and German as the languages of instruction, internships in Austria and overseas, international exchange programmes and semesters abroad ensure that students are fully prepared for careers in Austria or other countries. Outstanding: IMC Krems has an excellent reputation outside Austria thanks to numerous awards, certifications and accreditations from international organisations, such as the European Foundation for Management Development (EFMD), a global network of business schools and companies. The university's quality management system was recently certified by quality assurance agency evalag.